SO, MCRAW STATES

AUSTIN, Aug. 26. (P)—Attorney General William McCraw ruled today the Dean law, providing stiff penalties for liquor law violations, would be effective in all counties until election results were canvassed.

Counties dry by local option when prohibition became effective in 1919, McCraw said, would continue to be dry after the vote canvass of returns of Saturday's election by which prohibition was repealed, and violators would be subject to penalties of the Dean law until the legislature provided otherwise.

After the canvass, local option wet counties would be legally wet without regulation or taxation of liquor.

McCraw said the statute required the state canvassing board, comprised of the governor, secretary of state and attorney general, to canvass returns not earlier than 15 days after the election. He said it did not specify a time limit in which returns should be canvassed.

On that basis, he calculated the first day the board would meet would be September 9.

McCraw, outlining high points of his opinion, he intended to deliver the governor today, said dry counties could not hold local option elections to legalize liquor until machinery was provided by the legislature.

Dean Law Remains.
He explained that penalties for local option violations in force 16 years ago were dropped from the statute in the 1925 codification, but the constitutional amendment repealing prohibition authorized continuance of the Dean law as a penalty.

The Dean law was the statutory enactment to support prohibition. Penalties provided were one to five years imprisonment.

He explained the legislature could prescribe other penalties for local option violations.

Noting the result of the election, however, McCraw observed:

"Under present conditions, generally existing in the larger cities, ruling on liquor matters is like the postman going for a walk on his vacation."

WASHINGTON, Aug. 26. (P)—A stroke of the Presidential pen at 3 o'clock today (Eastern Standard time) meant enactment of the utility holding company bill, most bitterly-contested product of the present congress.

Mr. Roosevelt's chief aides in the long struggle for the legislation were called about him for the signing ceremony.

Among them were not only Senators Wheeler and Barkley and Representative Rayburn, but Benjamin V. Cohen and Thomas G. Corcoran, young new deal attorneys.

The attorneys part has been warmly disputed, opponents accusing both of "lobbying" and Corcoran of trying to coerce a congressman to get the bill passed.

The bill empowers the securities commission to supervise the flotation of securities, sales of power, and financing and operating methods of utility holding companies in general, where strictly intrastate activities are not concerned. It calls for compulsory abolition

Dynamite Blast
Destroyed Engine
Room Coal Mine

BENTON, Ill., Aug. 26. (P)—A dynamite blast, attributed by authorities to the state's inter-mine union warfare, destroyed the engine room of the Valler Coal company mine early today. Damages were estimated at $100,000.

Boilers, hoisting machinery and other apparatus were wrecked by the explosion, which leveled a one-story brick building. No one was injured.

Deputy sheriffs discovered a long coil of wire near the building which they said had apparently been used by the dynamiters in setting off the blast from a distance.

The explosion was the first in Franklin county since 1932, but other mining centers of the state have been the scenes of repeated blasting since the Progressive Miners Union and the United Mine Workers of America began their fight for control of the state's fields several years ago.

Complete unofficial returns from the 48 precincts of Navarro county Saturday night on the seven proposed amendments to the Constitution of Texas showed only 4,568 votes in the balloting on the old-age pension amendment, the highest vote of the election.

By a margin of more than 1,200 votes, the county voted in the dry column when 1,644 favored the repeal of the prohibition regulations while 2,906 were against changing the present laws, a margin for the dries of 1,262.

There were 2,299 favoring the committing of insane persons under certain conditions without trials by juries as compared to 1,801 against the proposal, a margin of only 498 votes.

WHEAT LOAN ADJUSTMENT
STILL REMAINS UNSETTLED

WASHINGTON, Aug. 26. (P)—Smashing opposition of the farm bloc, the house today adopted a resolution calling for a sine die adjournment of congress to-night.

President Roosevelt was conferring with cotton senators, to work out a formula expected to end differences between the two branches on the wheat-cotton loans inserted in the deficiency bill.

The senate itself recessed for five hours, pending negotiations with the house leadership on the still-secret methods decided upon to break the deadlock and end the session.

In the house, the adjournment resolution was presented by Representative Taylor of Colorado, acting democratic leader.

Representative Vinson (D-Ga.), a cotton state leader, moved that it be tabled. On a standing vote, he was defeated 178 to 47.

Adjournment then was approved 172 to 47 on a standing vote. Again the farm bloc failed to obtain enough strength to force a roll call.

The house immediately stood in recess subject to call.

Speaker Byrns referred the deficiency bill with its loan riders to the house appropriations committee for study.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 26. (P)—President Roosevelt and his legislative leaders tackled anew today the difficult task of finding a way out of the cotton-wheat loan impasse which threatened to delay adjournment of congress indefinitely.

They had reached no decision in talks over the week-end. In fact, many legislators were so tired and temper so ruffled that most leaders decided to let the thing simmer until today. Speaker Byrns even went on a boat trip.

Some observers, who had seen the leaders fight for adjournment Saturday night only to fail in a spectacular session that ended just two minutes before midnight, believed almost anything might happen as this week opened in a mood of tired anti-climax.

Some said that, if the present deadlock is not broken soon, proponents of legislation previously passed by the United States.

WITH THE ITALIAN ARMY, Bolzano, Italy, Aug. 26. (P)—Benito Mussolini, chief of Italy's government and armed forces, came here today and entered immediately into the vast military maneuvers under way on the Austrian frontier.

More than 10,000 Fascists from Bolzano and neighboring towns gathered in the public square and cheered him repeatedly in a great demonstration when he arrived.

In the afternoon, he went into the area where 150,000 soldiers are engaged in maneuvers and chatted lengthily over technical military subjects with his generals.

It was not far from here that II Duce worked as a young editor when this territory was under Austrian domination. Twenty miles from here is the fall where he was imprisoned for several months by Austria for writing inflammatory MOSCOW, Aug. 26. (P)—A United States' protest against "the interference by foreign countries in their internal affairs," was received in silence today by Soviet officials and the Soviet press.

Official quarters had absolutely nothing to say in answer to questions put this morning regarding the note delivered yesterday by Ambassador William C. Bullitt of the United States. These questions included whether any other countries had taken action similar to that of the United States.

Rumors that the American protest would be followed by some step on the part of two or three other nations had not been confirmed.

It was stated at the foreign office that Foreign Commissar Maxim Litvinoff was on vacation and not in Geneva, as previously

DENVER, Aug. 26. (P)—A seventeen-year old youth was said today by police to have admitted he was the arsonist who set a series of fires which struck terror in the city's business district.

"Sure I set 17 of the fires, and besides that I wanted all over the country," Detective Sergeant Walter T. Fox quoted the youth as saying.

Dave Eastes, a detective, said the youth identified himself as Warren Cramer, son of Dr. Harry R. Cramer, Oakland, Calif.

Legislators agreed, Lieutenant Governor Walter F. Woodul announced, it would be unwise to permit unbridled sales pending passage of laws to regulate the liquor traffic because of the possible effect it would have on the type of regulation to be prescribed.

The legislature, conferees said, was given broad powers by the repeal amendment would have ample authority to prescribe rigid qualifications for dealers, including forfeiture of their right to engage in the business if they violate existing law.

Attending the conference were Woodul, Morse, Senators Ola Van Zandt of Toga, Wilbourne D. Colie of Eastland, L. J. Sulak, La-Grange and Will D. Martin of Hillsboro and Representatives Fred Ketch of Seguin, Jesse

ADDIS ABABA, Aug. 26. (P)—The Belgian minister today asked Emperor Haile Selassie's permission for the American and other foreign legations to bring in emergency troops as the British are doing for the protection of these diplomatic missions.

As the Belgian diplomat took this action natives were streaming out of the capital, leaving their homes, to go into the interior.

The Italian legation began the removal of its archives as the first indication of an official Italian evacuation. The legation advised all Italians, except those whose presence is imperative, to leave at once.

The natives began leaving in accordance with Emperor Haile Selassie's statements.

Grants Injunction
Against Officers

Navarro county law enforcement officers were restrained and enjoined from entering Pete Massey's place on Highway 31, two miles east of Kerens, seizing beer, and for his friends, constable of the Kerens precinct, and Rufus Pevehouse, sheriff of Navarro county, and their deputies, from further raids, alleging that the officers frighten his customers away from his filling station, tourist camp, cafe, sold drink and sandwich stand. The petition alleged Massey had the 24 cases and 18 bottles of beer for his own use and for his friends, and denied that he had the beer for the purpose of sale, and that the frequent appearance of officers frightens away his customers and ruins his business.

The injunction petition was granted against T. A. Crowley, justice of the peace at Kerens, restraining him from issuing search warrants for Massey's place, and restraining A. H. Holloway, constable of the Kerens precinct, and Rufus Pevehouse, sheriff of Navarro county, and their deputies, from further raids, alleging that the officers frighten his customers away from his filling station, tourist camp, cafe, sold drink and sandwich stand. Natural Immunity
Only Hope People
Bitten Longview

AUSTIN, Aug. 26. (P)—The natural immunity of some persons to disease is the only hope for seven persons in Longview bitten by a rabid dog three months ago, Dr. S. W. Bohls, chief of the Pasteur Institute of the State Health Department, said today.

A child bitten by the dog died Saturday.

"It is too late now to start treatments," Dr. Bohls said. "Everybody who is bitten doesn't develop rabies. Some persons are naturally immune to it, just like others are immune to typhoid fever and other diseases. I don't see how the Pasteur treatment would do any good now."

Dr. Bohls said much rabies was prevalent in East Texas. He planned to visit the section in the next few days to advise with local health officers.

LONDON, Aug. 26. (P)—Certain informed neutral quarters said tonight that Premier Mussolini may tell the League of Nations that his price for calling off the threatened invasion of Ethiopia is a gift by other powers of colonies in Africa.

Meantime, the British government speeded up the movement of troops and naval forces towards strategic points on the British route of empire.

Mussolini's reference to the colonial problem were noted in the foreign office where the delicate colonial question has been under consideration since Reichsfuehrer Hitler demanded the return of some of Germany's lost territory.

The British government was represented as believing that the colonial problem is an international matter which can only be decided by the powers in joint conference, but there was no sign that Great Britain would permit any sudden parley forced by the present turn of events in Africa.

NEW DEAL AND ITS ENEMIES
HEADING FOR 1936 SHOWDOWN;
BIDDING FOR SUPPORT YOUTH

WASHINGTON, Aug. 26. (P)—Heading toward the great showdown of 1936, the New Deal and its foes both are engaging in intensive bids for the support of the younger generation.

Directly answering President's radio appeal for a united fight by youth on "the old order," Representative Snell, Republican leader in the house, said last night that a change in the constitution abolishing rights of individual citizens would place "those who possess the power, the wealth, and the cunning" in control of the government.

"Surely the youth of America," he said in a radio address, "are not prepared to endorse any administration which is seeking to bring about such a condition."

Several times he quoted from the presidential speech broadcast Saturday night to the convention of Young Democratic clubs in Milwaukee. Championing a philosophy of change, the president had said that "rules are not necessarily sacred—principles are. The methods of the old order are not, as some would have you believe, above the challenge of youth."

"To the American youth of all parties I submit a message of confidence—unity and challenge."

Speaking under auspices of the Republican national committee, Snell asserted "the real question is whether or not the new economic system which the New Deal and the present administration is offering as a substitute for the old will better serve the real interests of the American people than the one they are asked to discard."

"The New Deal," he continued, "attempts to place a whole people in lockstep and deny to the individual the right to exercise his own judgment and resourcefulness in the management of his business, farm or factory."

"It would reduce every citizen to the status of an automaton taking orders from a government bureaucracy."

DALLAS, Aug. 26. (P)—Repeal of prohibition in Texas led by 54,577 votes in a report on Saturday's election issued at noon today by the Texas Election Bureau.

"We are going to check our figures and if the result is changed any, of course we'll report it," A. E. Henning, manager of the bureau said. "Otherwise this is the final report."

The figures, which included reports from 240 out of the state's 253 counties, with 53 complete, were:

Repeal: For 262,185; against 207,608.

Amendment Submission: For, 187,062; against, 200,203.

Suspended Sentences: For, 213,290; against 180,204.

Textbooks for Private Schools: For, 205,904; against, 236,755.

Figures on old age pensions, commitment of the insane and fee abolition issued earlier in the day were permitted to stand as final. Henning said since the vote on them was so overwhelming, these earlier figures were:

Old Age Pensions: For, 389,858; against 92,982.

Commitment of Insane: For, 255,216; against 187,223.

Fee Abolition: For, 243,723; against 155,823.

DALLAS, Aug. 26. (P)—Sixteen years of state-wide prohibition were behind Texas today, but Saturday's special election which saw repeal voted in by a strong margin left a confusing tangle which appeared of no immediate solution.

To all but liquor dealers and drinking establishment operators, the status of districts dry by local option before state-wide prohibition and the time and method for legal beginning of the hard liquor sales in wet territory were in doubt.

Most liquor dealers in the large cities, however, were ready to make sales while police and officials attempted to solve the knotty problem.

Bars were shined up for the prospective business rush and price cards were being posted. Morning by morning, however, the sale of beer of more than 3.2 per cent of alcohol content, the previous level.

At San Antonio, the active of beer of more than 3.2 per cent of alcohol content, the previous level.

CORSICANA PUBLIC SCHOOLS TO OPEN
MONDAY, SEPT. 9THPLANS GOING FORWARD
RAPIDLY FOR RESUMPTION OF DUTIES BY STUDENTS

Corsicana's public schools will open Monday morning, Sept. 9, 1935, it was announced Monday by Superintendent W. H. Norwood, when he released for publication a school calendar for the 1935-36 year, adopted at a recent meeting of the board of education.

With nearly all of the school principals having returned from their vacations, plans were going forward rapidly this week to put everything in order for the opening of the school.

Superintendent Norwood returned recently from New York City where he attended the summer sessions of Columbia University. Principal P. Douglas returned the latter part of last week from Austin where he attended both summer sessions of the University of Texas. Both Superintendent Norwood and Principal Douglas were at their desks in the high school building Monday, and plan to be there every day until the opening of school.

A corps of janitors and assistants have been renovating the schools during the summer, and the buildings, corridors and room floors, the desk tops and walls now present a "new" appearance. Further details of the school opening plans will be announced later in the week.

Following is the school calendar

NAVARRO COUNTY IS STILL LEGALLY DRY IS LEGAL OPINION

COUNTY UNDER LOCAL OPTION LAW WHEN STATE WENT DRY YEARS AGO

Navarro county will continue to be legally dry despite the fact that the state repealed the prohibition laws in the favoring of the constitutional amendment, according to the opinion expressed by C. L. Knox, assistant criminal district attorney, McAllen, Monday, and will be dry until voted otherwise. This county was dry when the state prohibition law was passed more than 15 years ago and under the Senate Joint Resolution No. 3, Section 1, Article XVI, Constitution of Texas, Section 20, passed by the Texas legislature when the election was called, the following is provided:

(C)—In all counties, justice's precincts or incorporated towns or cities wherein the sale of intoxicating liquors has been prohibited by local option elections held under the laws of the state of Texas, and in force at the time of the taking effect of Section 20, Article XVI of the constitution of Texas, shall continue to be unlawful to manufacture, sell, barter or exchange in any such county, justice's precinct or incorporated town or city, any intoxicating liquors or malt liquors or medicated bitters capable of producing intoxication or any other intoxicants whatsoever, for beverage purposes, unless and until a majority of the qualified voters in such county or political subdivision thereof voting in an election held for such purpose shall determine such to be lawful; provided that this subsection shall not prohibit the sale of alcoholic beverages containing not more than 3.2 per cent alcohol by weight in cities, counties or political subdivisions thereof in which the qualified voters have voted to legalize such sale under the provisions of Chapter 116, Acts of the Regular Session of the 43rd Legislature.

Navarro county voters opposed the free text books for all school whether state supported or otherwise 2,367 to 1,888, a difference of 479 votes.

The total vote was considerably lighter than anticipated by many veteran political observers.

The returns from the presiding judges were sent in quickly and with dispatch. The Emmett precinct was the first to report while Navarro Mills was the last. The Navarro Mills precinct was reported at 9:35 o'clock when W. H. Thorne, presiding judge, reported to Corsicana with his return when available telephone accommodations could not be utilized.

How City Voted.

The city of Corsicana voted the old-age pension, against the repeal of the prohibition laws, for the committing of the insane, for the amendments at special sessions, against the suspending of sentences, and for the officers to be paid salaries against the fee system and for the free text books.

Corsicana voted in the dry column 692 to 554 against the repeal of 108 votes. The liquor vote topped the city in interest with 1,276 votes cast, although almost tied by the old-age pension proposal that polled 1,275 ballots.

Returns from the state on the election Saturday night were furnished The Corsicana Sun over a special leased wire from the Texas Election Bureau and the regular Associated Press night wire.

The street in front of The Sun building was roped off by the local police officials and many persons attended the election party for the local and state returns. A loud-speaker arrangement was furnished by the Bivin Radio Company.

Five of the forty-eight precincts voted for the repeal of the prohibition amendment, one resulted in a tie vote and 43 voted in the "dry" column. The wet precincts were Wards 1 and 2 in Corsicana, Rushing, Phillips Chapel and Cade. Currie polled a tie vote 16 to 16.

Small Cyclone Hit Small Area Northeast Powell Wednesday

POWELL, Aug. 26.—A small cyclone passed over pastures and fields in the area three miles northeast of Powell Wednesday afternoon. After plowing up the ground and destroying a small quantity of crops it rose into the air only to dip down again about two miles farther westward.

No other damage was reported other than excitement which prevailed among the residents who took to the fields to avoid the "twister" and became drenched in the torrential downpour which followed.

STATE ELECTION

gal limit, was started shortly after midnight Saturday, when the election result was apparent. At Houston, liquor was displayed in shop windows. Wholesale dealers in Dallas and other orders had doubled and tripled.

McCraw to Issue Ruling.

Attorney General William McCraw, besieged with requests for rulings on the problems of repeal, was expected to issue a general ruling today.

Gov. James V. Allred declined to commit himself definitely on the time of a special legislative session to enact enabling laws. Before the election, he had said a session would be called to pass regulatory and licensing measures.

The governor expressed opposition to hasty preparation and adoption of regulations. Exactly when the amendment becomes operative was in doubt, and the governor said he would ask the attorney general's department to determine that point.

Under a new statute the results of the election must be canvassed and proclaimed on the 15th day after the vote.

Although the Dean law, the enabling act under the repealed prohibition amendment to the Constitution, theoretically will be in effect until the legislature meets and acts upon it, convictions will be hard to obtain, it was believed.

Majority Is Heavy.

Latest tabulations on the repeal vote showed 260,917 in favor of discarding prohibition, compared to the 206,583 ballots rounded up by the drys.

The proposed amendments concerning old age pensions, commitment of insane, suspended sentences and fee abolition carried. Proponents for those concerning amendment submission and text books for private schools apparently had lost their fight.

Latest returns on the voting, other than the repeal balloting, were:

Old age pensions: For 369,858; against 92,982.

Commitment of insane: For 255,216; against 167,223.

Amendment submission: For 186,653; against 199,292.

Suspended sentences: For 212,161; against 178,484.

Fee abolition: For 243,723; against 155,823.

Textbooks for private schools:

PROTEST

reported. It was understood he was in Czechoslovakia.

The reaction in foreign circles sympathetic to the Soviet was that the protest leaves a loophole for settlement, inasmuch as the "serious consequences" mentioned in the next to the last paragraph of the note, were declined to be anticipated if the Soviet government was unable to take measures to "prevent further acts" in disregard of the Soviet pledge to the United States.

It was pointed out in these circles that the seventh congress of the third international was ended and it was likely to be a long time before the next assembled.

Newspapers Ignore Matter.

The morning newspapers today failed even to mention that Ambassador Bullitt had delivered to the Soviet Union his government's protest against remarks at the recent congress here of the Communist international.

Litvinoff pledged his government to prohibit activities seeking to change the political or social order in the United States. The order of the speakers at the Communist outlined Communism aims in the United States, but the note made no specific reference to any statements.

"The American people," said the ambassador's note, "resent most strongly the interference by foreign countries in their internal affairs, regardless of the nature or the probable results of such interference."

The government of the United States considers strict fulfillment of the pledge of non-interference an essential pre-requisite to the maintenance of moral and friendly relations between the United States and the union of Soviet Socialist Republics.

Serious Consequences.

"The government of the United States would be lacking in candor if it failed to state frankly that it anticipates most serious consequences if the government of the Union of Soviet Socialist Republics is unwilling or unable to take appropriate measures to prevent further acts in disregard of the solemn pledge given by it to the United States."

LEGISLATURE

Re-Each of Commerce W. C. Reid of Dallas, Grover Burton of McKinney and John B. Patterson of Austin.

It was reported after the conference Governor Allred had tentatively decided to call a special session for September 18 to consider liquor control legislation and old age pensions.

AUSTIN, Aug. 26.—(P)—Gov. Allred today awaited advice from legislators on the date for a special session to enact a liquor regulation law and Attorney General William McCraw ruled the Dean law, old prohibition enforcement statute, would be effective in all counties pending official canvass of Saturday's election returns.

The governor asked legislators to telegraph their views as to a suitable date and the form of the proposed legislation.

McCraw held counties dry under local option prior to state-wide prohibition would remain dry after the canvass. Although he held that theoretically the Dean law was effective in wet counties until the vote was canvassed, he commented that "under present conditions, generally existing in the larger cities, ruling on liquor matters is like the postman going for a walk on his vacation."

Sale of Liquors was reported in counties voting heavily for repeal. Dry counties could not hold local option elections to legalize the sale of liquor until the legislature provided machinery, McCraw ruled.

"The people have spoken decisively on the liquor question," the governor said on prohibition repeal. "The majority rules. Liquor laws and liquor enforcement now depend on local option."

No Recommendations.

Governor Allred said he had prepared no recommendations to the legislature as yet on legislation to regulate the manufacture and sale of liquor. He recalled, however, he asked the legislature at its regular session to carefully study the state monopoly system.

"Any legislature should, of course, carry out the mandate of the people, especially as to barring open saloons and protecting the integrity of local dry territory," he said. "No doubt this legislation will require careful thought and preparation before a session. In addition, we must not lose sight of the old age pension amendment and its responsibilities. Careful study and preparation should be had before a legislative session."

The governor voiced certainty that the Dean law, enforcement statute under state-wide prohibition, still would be effective in territories dry under local option.

No Thought to Clemencies.

Governor Allred said he had given no thought to his attitude on clemency applications filed in behalf of persons serving sentences in the penitentiary from counties that voted wet Saturday. "I don't think here are very many of them, anyway," he said.

The governor requested Attorney General William McCraw for a ruling on questions arising from prohibition repeal. They were:

1. When will the amendment empowering the legislature to regulate the liquor traffic and prohibit the open saloon become effective?
2. When the results have been officially canvassed, and the amendment becomes effective, what will be the status in law or counties (a) where the sale of intoxicating liquors has been prohibited by local option elections held under state-wide prohibition section (b) in counties wet under local option prior to state-wide prohibition?

The attorney general and his first assistant, Scott Gaines, conferred with the governor on the questions.

The governor expressed regret that it takes time to make an amendment becomes effective.

The United States communists were represented at the congress by William Z. Foster, one-time communist candidate for president; Earl Browder, secretary general of the communist party of U. S.; Gil Green, head of the communist youth movement in the United States; and Sam Darcy. All delivered speeches relative to the progress of communism in the United States.

UTILITY BILL

tion of holding companies in general with a compromise providing that two holding companies may be erected upon one system of adjacent operation companies. This becomes effective January 1, 1936.

Subsidiaries and affiliates of holding company systems performing engineering, accounting, construction and other services for the operating companies must do so at cost under the provisions of the bill. Advocates said this provision was intended to end abuses arising from practices under which they contended, operating companies were compelled to subscribe to such services and pay exorbitant fees.

Gas is covered only in title one of the bill relating to holding companies. No provision is made for regulation of interstate gas rates.

The bill provides for regulation of interstate wholesale electricity rates, however.

The legislature failed to follow his suggestion that enabling legislation be passed at the time prohibition repeal was submitted.

The governor said he had not decided what topics would be submitted to the special session. There was some speculation the session would be thrown open to many important subjects, including taxation reform, public utility regulation and establishment of a state agency to construct a gas pipeline from the Texas Panhandle to northern cities with the aid of federal loan.

The constitutional amendment abolishing the fee system of compensating county, district and precinct officers directed the legislature to pass enabling legislation at the first special session or regular session following the election. The view was held that officers now on fees would be cut off from compensation entirely if the legislature failed to pass an enabling act.

Much Interest Shown.

Governor Allred said he hoped the amendment authorizing the legislature to submit proposed changes in the constitution at special sessions in emergencies still would carry. The amendment still would carry, the amendment trailed by about 12,000 votes last night. It was through this medium the legislature hoped to be able to submit constitutional amendments to permit the state to conform with the federal social security program and to provide relief to indigent unemployed when existing funds, budgeted through December, are exhausted.

The results of Saturday's election evidenced a wholesome interest in government on the part of the people," the governor said. "The fact that five of the seven amendments have carried and that one of those failing was in the exact middle of the ballot discloses that voters discriminating instead of voting blindly for or against an entire set of amendments as so often happened before."

"I am particularly pleased with the overwhelming endorsement given the old age pension amendment. With proper legislative action this will enable us to go forward with our great progressive President's humanity program."

A PROMISE THAT HAS BEEN KEPT

IN 1810, one hundred and twenty-five years ago, the Hartford Fire Insurance Company was organized. Insurance at that time was almost an untied experiment and it was necessary to build up a reputation for reliability and business integrity in order to gain and hold public favor.

In December, 1810, JONATHAN G. W. TRUMBULL of Norwich, Connecticut, became the first Hartford agent. Today, there are more than 17,000 Hartford agents in the United States and Canada, who believe in the soundness of Hartford protection, and sell Hartford Insurance covering any property loss, however caused, against which insurance may be lawfully effected.

The Hartford's great business could never have been built up without a record of performance back of the promises its agents sell. Through five wars, seven panics, and every conflagration this country has known, the Hartford has paid and paid in cash. Because of the Hartford's integrity and the soundness of its protection, this agency is proud to be "Your local Hartford Agent"; and offers complete, expert service for every property insurance need.

ALASKAN PIONEERS

The other day a group of farmers returned from Alaska. They didn't like the way things were going there. They were all through, washed up, back to God's country in our own northwest.

This inevitably recalls the old covered wagon trek to Pike's Peak in the previous century. "Pike's Peak or Bust" read the signs on many wagons going westward. "Busted," read the signs on all too many of those soon after going east.

Out of any hundred people starting out to do any given thing, some will be disappointed and unhappy about it. Some will be easily discouraged and give up early in the game. Some will be along on middle ground—they neither like it nor dislike it very vigorously, but as long as they are there, they might as well stay. Some few will keep high courage against odds, enjoying the fight if not the reason for it. They will win and be proud of their victory.

The recent news from Alaska is not so bad. It helps the pioneers to see houses actually going up, wells going down, sanitary provisions established and some crops growing, and to find salmon in the streams, wild game in the woods and mountains, coal within easy reach, and gold-bearing rock, in some cases, in the cellar. More efficient management suggests that perhaps the original idea wasn't so crazy, after all.

The National Geographic Society, in a recent bulletin, grows almost as lyrical about the possibilities as if it were selling Alaskan real estate. It recalls Theodore Roosevelt's prediction that Alaska would become "one of the greatest and most populous states of the entire Union, supporting as large a population as does the entire Scandinavian peninsula."

That depends largely on whether most of the present inhabitants and recent settlers hold out and make a go of it. Defeat now, while perhaps not changing the ultimate destiny of Alaska, would set its development back many years.

BABE RUTH SHOWS HOW

Babe Ruth set a good example for all motorists, not in having an accident but in his attitude toward it. His car struck a woman pedestrian. The Babe took the victim to a hospital for first aid treatment and later to her home. Then he reported the accident to the police.

The hit-skip driver is sometimes as callous as he is careless. He goes on without finding out whether his victim is badly hurt because he doesn't care and wants to avoid the consequences of his act. Sometimes he is a coward and flees because he is afraid to face the situation. A few such hit-skipper regain their self-control and then report to the police.

The honest and decent thing is to do what the former home-run king did.

JUST FOLKS

(Copyright, 1935, Edgar A. Guest.)

"DON'T TROUBLE ME." "Don't trouble me!" he used to say. "I'm busy now; run out and play." Oft when the youngster came to plead for help he sorely seemed to need. He'd answer, ere he'd heard him through: "I've more important work to do."

"Don't trouble me!" when boys are small. The phrase seems harmless after all. And what are children's doubts and cares Compared to man's supreme affairs? Why should a father bothered be By every simple childish plea?

Thus dodging trouble day by day This thoughtless father went his way.

So long as undisturbed he stayed He never asked with whom he played, Or where his son had been, until Disaster came his blood to chill.

That father sits with anxious brow Beneath a weight of trouble now. He's bothered now by worries great.

He wants to help, but it's too late! The aid that youngster needed ago. He should have given long ago.

MEAT AND HOUSEWIFE
Detroit housewives, striking first against high meat prices, say they are now going after high electric, gas and milk prices. They are determined not to let the cost of living get too far ahead of the family income. Their attitude is understandable.

Unfortunately economic problems are a little more complicated than this. The proprietors of the closed butcher shops soon may be unable to pay their help or their rent, or to buy goods and supplies they and their families need. Thus the wave of deflation may spread.

It may be that honest and thorough - going deflation was the medicine the depression needed at the start. Two different national administrations thought otherwise, and tried to check and reserve the deflationary movement.

It is hard now to tell whether incomes ought to be raised to meet high costs of this and that or whether the high costs should be reduced to the level of depression incomes.

SOAKING THE RICH
One of those grand old theories which come down the ages is that of soaking the rich. When things are going fine the rich are great people who give libraries and museums and outfit expeditions and live so comfortably that all we think about is trying to emulate them as far as we can.

When things are going badly—Soak the Rich! Sure. They can stand it. There's a basis of reason under this. In times gone by many a rich man has abused his power and soaked the poor. And many a corporation has watered its stock and paid high dividends when if it had had either common sense or common humanity it would, indeed, have raised wages.

It's fair enough, too, to tax big incomes heavily. The poor are taxed. The rich should be taxed likewise, and not be allowed to escape their just obligations to the community. But when it comes to sharing wealth, trying to divide up capital, it's a different matter. A corporation's wealth is only to a small extent in money. So with an individual's. It's in the buildings of its plant, in the equipment, in the good will and the brains of the men who made it great. When you soak those things, you are not sharing wealth—you are creating poverty. Idle wheels are not wealth. They are just so much rusting iron, crumbling stone. The idle plant is a dead thing.

But the plant with its brains and its equipment moving, its wheels turning, its roof sheltering busy workmen—that's alive and creating things for the use of all.

A little sober common sense applied to soaking the rich will prove more effective than the unreasoning passion which blinds the soaker to his own best interest.

While Huey Long offers to debate the President, the President considers how to abate Huey.

THE BOY SCOUT PARTY

Regretfully President Roosevelt cancelled the big gathering of Boy Scouts planned to take place in Washington from August 21 to 31. More than thirty thousand of these boys with their officers had expected to attend the jamboree and the news came as a great disappointment.

The reason, however, is more important still. An infantile paralysis epidemic has reached Washington. The President knows only too well what that dread disease can do even to one who survives it under the best of conditions. Most of the young people who get it do not survive.

The Scouts will take this blow with their usual courage. The Scout learns above all to be alert and sensible in the face of danger, to give real peril a long detour. And for any sharp pang of disappointment as well as for all the difficulties of every day life, Scout Honor sustains him. Scout Training fits him to Be Prepared.

THE HOME TOWN

A Philadelphia newspaper this summer ran a series of articles on a "depression vacation." It told readers with small incomes, unable to take long trips, how to make the most of a vacation spent at home. Museums and places of interest were described and their principal attractions emphasized. Inexpensive one-day jaunts to near-by resorts were outlined, too.

It was a good idea, but need not be confined to vacation time. Many citizens in many communities do not know their own towns well. They keep to a certain route between home and business, including a limited range of entertainment and visiting. The rest of the vicinity, outside this range of interest, is as strange to them as a city they've never visited.

Pointing the way to unfamiliar but interesting and pleasant places would be rendering double service, adding to public information and pleasure and creating a finer civic spirit.

So they're about to celebrate Mark Twain's hundredth birthday. How time passes! But fortunately Tom and Huck and the little boy king never grew any older.

Now the locust is singing his monotonous song again, and people are telling us still more monotonously that he isn't a locust but a cicada.

ADDITIONAL BONDS FOR WATERWORKS VOTED AT DAWSON

DAWSON, Aug. 23.—(Spl.)—Dawson citizens almost unanimously endorsed the issuance of $53,000 additional PWA waterworks bonds at the election held Tuesday. There were 99 votes for the bonds and two against them. When $42,000 bonds were voted last October, there were 153 votes for and 2 against the measure.

After the $42,000 were voted last October, it was found that it would be insufficient so the other election was ordered. With the PWA grant, a total of $68,000 with a possible addition of $3,000 will be available. The bonds are to be paid from the revenues of the waterworks system after deduction of operation and maintenance expense is made.

Since a large part of the preliminary work of the project has been completed, it is thought by city officials that the actual construction should be started in about 60 days.

SUIT TO RECOVER CODE EXPENDITURES DENIED BY COURT

NEW YORK, Aug. 23.—(P)—Supreme Court Justice Aaron J. Levy today dismissed a suit brought to recover money expended by the NRA in military code authority in a decision described as the first to be rendered in the United States since the United States supreme court declared NRA unconstitutional.

"It seems to me," said Justice Levy in announcing his decision, "that the plaintiffs have no cause for action against the incorporated code authority for monies collected to be paid out under a mistake of law."

He referred to the Schechter chicken case which, carried to the United States supreme court, resulted in the death of NRA. Plaintiffs were B. Seiden and William F. Chiniquy, of Chicago.

FRESH AND COOL

Miss Forbes tells you how to make deodorant powders which will keep you feeling and looking fresh on the hottest days of the summer holiday.

The American woman recently has been led into such a state of terror over the possibility that she is physically offensive to others by her odor that she will rush for anything on a counter which promises to relieve this fear. Yet in a day of healthy athletics, freshening changes of light clothing, E. K. Forbes how can she have such fear? It was our grandmothers in their lined and wheeled bodies, and their many thick petticoats who should have had those worries—but who seemed not to have them and to manage nicely just the same!

Now, a very, very good deodorant is a teaspoonful of bicarbonate of soda to a glass of water. Soak a sponge in this and wet the skin under the arms, the neck, anywhere else where you seem to perspire. It is easier to make up a lot of this water, keeping it in some empty toilet water bottle, with a small sponge to use with it. Or, after washing, or before you change your clothes, you can pour a little on the hand and rub this on the skin, wiping it off. It is cooling and soothing and it neutralizes odors as well.

You need a stronger powder for the feet, if they perspire much. It has been suggested that the best one is made from one ounce of rice starch and one ounce of tannin, to two ounces of French chalk.

Or, a mixture of half powdered boracic acid, and half perfumed talcum is a good deodorant powder for skin, or for feet too. Indeed, for any purpose where you fear bodily odors might offend—offend your own self as well as some leashed and superciliously critical friend. This powder inside dry clothes will help too, to keep you sweet and fresh in the hot days. But, of course, you should wash your loose wash socks as long through the hot season as possible.

Mrs. K. N.—Probably the soap you use in the shampoo causes the yellow caste to your white hair. Fortunately, it is only temporary, as usually when that does happen, the hair is yellowed until all that growth has been cut off. The fine grade of castle or a soap similar to it, made from fine vegetable oils, should be used when shampooing. The dead white hair is becoming color in it, but if the skin is pale, or no longer youthful, the silver shade will be much more becoming than the other.

Tomorrow—Reduction And Laxatives.

JOHN N. WILLYS OF AUTOMOBILE FAME IS DEAD AT AGE OF 61

STARTED AS MAKER OF BICYCLES AND LEADER AUTO INDUSTRY FOR YEARS

NEW YORK, Aug. 26.—(P)—John N. Willys, a leader in the automobile industry for a quarter of a century and ambassador to Poland in the Hoover administration, died early today at his summer home in the Bronx. He was 61 years old.

He was stricken with a heart attack in May. He partially recovered and was stricken again last week. His condition became critical Friday.

Mrs. Willys, the former Mrs. Florence E. Dolan, to whom he was married slightly more than a year ago, was in constant attendance. So was his only daughter, Mrs. Jose Delanda, the former Virginia Willys.

Willys and his first wife, the former Isabel Van Wie, were divorced in Florida in July, 1934. Willys was a native of Canada, N. Y., and had been in the automobile business since the death of his father, he started a bicycle sales firm at Elmira, N. Y., and in seven years worked it up to an annual gross business of $500,000.

In 1908 he went over the Overland Automobile Company, which was about to go into the hands of a receiver, and organized the Willys-Overland Company at Indianapolis. He purchased the Pope-Toledo Company at Toledo, Ohio, and moved the Willys-Overland plant there.

Sold to Syndicate. He sold his automobile holdings to a syndicate in 1922, which involved several million dollars. President Hoover appointed him ambassador to Poland in 1930 and he served until 1932.

By taking a chance with an automobile company which was about to go into receivership, John North Willys started a business success which brought him into prominence in varied lines.

His financial rise was coincident with the growth of American importance as an exporter of automobiles, leading him into activity which put him in touch with European problems and resulted ultimately in his being named ambassador to Poland. President Hoover. He was the first American diplomat to hold that rank in Warsaw, the United States having maintained only a legation there up to 1930.

Mr. Willys had a great faith in the infant automobile industry when, in 1907, he took over the Overland company, reorganized it as the Willys-Overland company and started a manufacturing and selling campaign which made him one of the leaders of the industry for nearly a quarter of a century.

Business Ability. Innate business ability began to manifest itself in Mr. Willys when he was a boy. It was told of him that he was fond of negotiating little deals with his companions at an age when most boys are thinking of games and toys. For example, one thing that he acquired to a marked degree and as a growing youth he eyed the bicycle, just coming into popularity, as a profitable outlet for his selling ingenuity.

At the age of 18, Mr. Willys had organized a bicycle sales company at Elmira, N. Y. In seven years he had worked up a large wholesale distribution business with gross sales of approximately $500,000 a year.

About that time he saw an advertisement in a newspaper newspaper seeking some one to handle the product of the Overland company of Indianapolis. The Overland was a four-cylinder automobile, in advance of the two-cylinder then in general use. The company had been in business six years and during its biggest year had produced 47 cars.

Mr. Willys proposed to take over the sole agency of the company, much to the amazement of D. M. Perry who then controlled it, for it was planned to manufacture 500 cars that year. In the midst of the negotiations came the 1907 panic. Officials of the Overland company notified Mr. Willys that their business was in financial straits and was about to close.

Making a hurried trip to Indianapolis, Mr. Willys found that the entire force had been dismissed and in the plant were parts for about three weeks' sales. That was Saturday with the company to go into the receiver's hands on Monday.

After conferences in Indianapolis and communication with friends in New York and Chicago, Mr. Willys finally obtained $7,500 from the directors of his bicycle company in Elmira. With that capital he began reorganization of the company, which was completed early in 1915 as the Willys-Overland company, with Mr. Willys as president, treasurer and general manager. He also assumed the duties of sales manager and purchasing agent.

Under the direction of Mr. Willys the company maintained its place as a leader in the automobile industry. Mr. Willys was born at Canandaigua, N. Y., October 25, 1873, the son of Donald Smith Willys and Lydia North Willys. On December 1, 1897, he married Miss Isabel Van Wie of Canandaigua.

GREAT POPULARITY ROGERS AND POST SHOWN AT CAPITAL

ALLRED MOST AIRMINDED GOVERNOR TEXAS HAS HAD UP TO PRESENT TIME

By HOWARD C. MARSHALL. AUSTIN, Aug. 2.—(P)—The tremendous interest in the tragic death of Will Rogers and Wiley Post was reflected in the queries which flooded the capital press when reports of the fatal plane crash got about.

State department heads, employees and even a colored janitor sought information on the passing of the beloved humorist, and high and low joined in eulogizing him. Governor Allred voiced the grief of the state in an official proclamation.

Governor Allred has used the airplane more often than any other governor notwithstanding he once said he was a poor air traveler. Throughout the summer he has hoped to many sections of the state in a national guard plane.

His preference for flying has developed mostly since he became chief executive and has been stimulated by the necessity for saving time. When in a national guard plane, which is open, he wears a parachute.

Employees of the attorney general's department threw a little party for their chief, who died with gifts and standing by while he unwrapped them. It was the 39th anniversary of his birthday.

A miniature airplane, suggestive of McCraw's flying habits, hung from the ceiling, while ribbons ran down to an elaborate collection of socks, neckties, cigars and handkerchiefs. In the center was a large watermelon, a gift of Assistant Attorney General Ed Morrow.

McCraw had a big laugh upon finding a shirt with size 15 collar. He wears a 17.

Senator Jon Hall of Henderson, who has been conducting a kind of one-man investigation of the oil industry, says he has "found a few ducks" and will keep on looking. He admits he has uncovered nothing likely to shake the foundations of state.

As chairman of a subcommittee of a general senate investigating committee, he has questioned a number of witnesses in his office and is waiting to get them together. Because the contingent fund was exhausted long ago, his committee is out of money.

The suggestion has been made that the Division of Cotton Marketing would not look bad in uniform if something snappy and distinctive, like that of the Royal Northwest Mounted, was chosen.

One objection would be that a nice, loud uniform like the brilliant red of the "mounties" wouldn't help the rangers in their new status as detectives.

DECREASE IN EXTRA WHITE STANDARDS OF COTTON REPORTED

The report released today by the Division of Cotton Marketing at Austin on the quality of cotton classed from the Texas crop shows a decreasing proportion of grades in the extra white standards. There is less than 4 per cent of this week.

Of the cotton classed this week, 16.7 per cent is strict middling white. Less than 8 per cent of the cotton classed last week was strict middling and better. The report also shows that about 60 per cent of the cotton classed this week is middling white, and about 10 per cent is strict low and low middling white.

Spotted cotton classed last week was reported to be about 9 per cent, with nearly 7 per cent grading strict middling spotted. Cotton classed this week has a different proportion of staple lengths from the classed last week. The report shows 16.3 per cent is 7-8 inch, and 7.5 per cent is 15-16 inch. One inch cotton is less than 1-10 of all cotton classed, and only 2.9 per cent is reported as 1-16 inch in length.

Cotton tenderable under Section 5 of the U. S. Cotton Futures Act is reported as 98.9 per cent of all cotton classed this week.

AIR DERBYISTS IN COAST-TO-CLEVELAND HOP LEAVE TUCSON

LELAND HAYWARD, HOLLYWOOD, LED RACE INTO ARIZONA CITY LATE SUNDAY

TUCSON, Ariz., Aug. 26.—(P)—Miss Cecile Hamilton of Santa Monica, Calif., left here this morning, the first to get in a continuation of the coast-to-Cleveland derby.

She indicated she would stop at Lordsburg, N. M. The five other participants were expected to start later.

Leland Hayward of Hollywood led the derbyists into Tucson yesterday. Judges awarded him 183 points in precision flying.

TUCSON, Ariz., Aug. 26.—(P)—Leland Hayward, Hollywood, held a slight lead over Earl Ricks, Hot Springs, Ark., today as the field of six fliers in the Ruth Chatterton air derby headed into the second day of a six day cross country jaunt to Cleveland.

The derby contenders, aiming at precision marks rather than speed records, reached here last night from Los Angeles. Accompanying them as flight sponsor and "chaperone" was Miss Ruth Chatterton, the actress, piloting her own plane.

Hayward, with 183 points, was only one point ahead of the Arkansas pilot with Mrs. Ethel Sheehy, Fontana, Calif., running tied with 150 points as the field prepared to take off for the next stop at El Paso, Texas.

The other three contestants are Miss Cecile Hamilton, Santa Monica, Calif., W. S. Woodson, San Diego, Calif., and Grace Preston, also of San Diego.

The derby, a sideline event staged by Miss Chatterton in connection with the national air races at Cleveland, attracted an estimated 15,000 people to the night stop at El Paso and a mid-afternoon pause at Midland.

With $1,000 prize money offered, the fliers are judged on accuracy and safety and not speed. Warren E. Carey, chairman of the event, said. The winner will get $450 and the trophy put up by the actress.

The pilots planned to spend the night at Abilene, Texas, after the night stop at El Paso and a mid-afternoon pause at Midland.
